We've simplified sorting your stuff by offering DIY binder dividers are tabbed, labeled pages within a binder. They separate sections and make it easier and faster to find exactly what you're looking for. If a binder has tabbed dividers, readers can guickly and easily review the dividers designed to double as storage and organization, or simple tabbed dividers which resemble the backside of a standard hanging file folder. All these different styles of binder divider share one common purpose: to turn your collection of papers, printouts, and notes into an easy-to-follow narrative that's useful and easy to navigate. How Dividers Can Improve Your Binder Binders come in a variety of sizes and styles and styles and serve a wide range of purposes. The keys to any good binder are neatness, ease of access, and organization. Binder dividers help binders achieve all three of those goals affordably and effectively. If you're using a standard round-ring or D-ring binder, dividers help binders achieve all three of those goals affordably and effectively. a glance. They're great for students and teachers to divide by subject without sacrificing organization or ease of use. In schools, students are often required to have a large binder with one section for every class. This provides them with a single resource they can take from place to help them stay prepared and focused. This strategy can be extended well beyond the classroom, as the tabbed and divided approached helps professionals manage different projects, teams, or campaigns with a single binder. If you're using a post- or punchless binder, dividers are even more essential to navigating and understanding the contents. Since pages can't be flipped through as easily in punchless binders, divider pages are essential to providing readers with clear sections and helping them understand where they need to go to find the information they're looking for. Without tabbed dividers, punchless binders can easily turn into a mountain of disorganization. In a school, office, or home setting, divided binders provide maximum storage and ease of access while minimizing use of space and all but eliminating the problem of lost paperwork or documentation. Where Can You Get Binder Dividers, it's important to visualize how you want your finished binder to look and how many different dividers or organizers you'll need. These choices can help determine the best binder dividers for your needs. However, if you have a printer and a few basic supplies, you can also create your own custom dividers. Why Go DIY with Your Binder Dividers Poly binder dividers will help you save time and money without sacrificing any of the usefulness of those fancy dividers they'll try to sell you at the print shop. With the right binder and smart use of dividers, any collection of notes and papers can transform into an authoritative, easy-to-relate-to presentation of information. At Blue Summit Supplies, we're dedicated to providing the supplies, tools, and templates that you need to succeed. What colors work best for DIY binder tabs? While any color tabs will technically work well for DIY binder dividers, here are some options to keep in mind: All one color Rainbow colors (a small group of that sit next to each other on the color wheel, such as red, orange, and yellow or green, blue, and purple) Tints/shades or coordinating colors (such as light pink, dark pink, light purple, and dark purple) Coordinated colors (check out A.com for inspiration) Take into consideration that it can be difficult to read black ink when written or printed onto colored paper which is darker or heavily saturated. It's a good idea to choose lighter colors for your tabs when printing. If you're handwriting your tabs, one option is to invest in a white gel pen that can be read easily when written on darker colored paper. Printable DIY Binder Divider Tabs It's easy to create your own using Adobe Acrobat or Word. What you need: How to make DIY binder dividers: Step 1: To reinforce the edge of your DIY binder dividers, apply a long strip of packing tape over the left edge of each piece of cardstock, folding it over so that it covers the entire edge. Then, punch the divider with a 3-hole punch for use in a binder. Step 2: Use one of our editable divider templates to type your label name onto each divider tab. If you prefer to hand-write the labels on your tabs, you can skip this step. Note: The provided divider tab templates feature two text boxes on each tab. Type the same label name into each box, so that the label can be viewed from both the front and back side of the tab. Step 3: Print out the binder tabs. We recommend using plain white paper or cardstock for the blue or rainbow colored tabs, or solid colored paper for the blank tabs. Neatly apply packing tape to the surface of each printed tab. Step 4: Cut out each main rectangular tab shape around all four edges. Note: You can save cutting out the decorative, rounded insets on each side for a later step. Step 5: Fold each tab in half lengthwise, wrong sides together. Firmly crease each fold. Step 6: With each tab up so that the wrong side is facing up. Apply a strip of double-sided adhesive to the long, straight left and right edges. Step 8: Determine the placement of your tabs along the right edges of your binder dividers, taking into account that typically tabs will be placed at varying vertical distances along the divider edges. Adhere each tab to the right edge of a piece of the reinforced 3-hole punched cardstock you created in step 1. Step 9: Insert your finished DIY binder dividers into a binder. Your tabbed dividers are ready to use! If DIY is your thing, give a tab punch a try. These tools make it easy to personalize your binder tabs with decorative craft paper. Check out these unique options: Tab Punch by We R Memory Keepers- As the highest rated tab punch on the market, this punch is a must-try, alongside their coordinating application stickers. Teresa Collins Tab Squeeze Punch by Fiskars- Fiskars is known for offering high quality craft tools. While this particular punch has been discontinued by the manufacturer, a quick Google search pulls up several sellers of the tool on sites such as eBay and Etsy. Page Tabs Dies by Sizzix- If you have access to a Sizzix die cutting machine, these Thinlits dies are a fun option for punching a variety of tab shapes out of the paper or cardstock of your choice.
